Galations 2:8 (KJV)

```
D                   G
Beware lest any man spoil you
            D                   A
through philosophy and vain deceit,
              D                          G
after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world,
D      A         D
and -- not after Christ.

                              G
To think like the world - Do not participate
   D                                    A
It goes against the heart of God - Colossians 2 verse 8
    D                                       G
The ways of God and the ways of man - They'd never agreed
   D                    A                  D
So open up the Word of God and read and read and read and read

D                   G
Beware lest any man spoil you
            D                   A
through philosophy and vain deceit,
              D                          G
after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world,
D      A         D
and -- not after Christ.

D                   G
Beware lest any man spoil you
            D                   A
through philosophy and vain deceit,
              D                          G
after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world,
D      A         D         G   D A D
and -- not after Christ.
