John 16:12-13a (NKJV)

```
C            G                      C
I still have many things to say to you,
           G              C
but you cannot bear them now
          F                       C
However, when He, the Spirit of Truth, has come,
         G                    C
He will guide you into all Truth

           G                                C
Today the Lord has truth – to share with me
G                C
John 16 – 12 and 13
             F                           C
Truth is revealed to me by the Holy Spirit,
             G                               C
I must pay attention - if I'm going to hear it.

C            G                      C
I still have many things to say to you,
           G              C
but you cannot bear them now
          F                          C
However, when He, the Spirit of Truth, has come,
         G                    C      F   C G C
He will guide you into all Truth
```