John 20:13 (NIV)

```
A                   E
Woman why are your crying?
                           A       E
They have taken my Lord away, she said
    A                             E
and I don't know there they have put Him
                           A    D A    E A
they have taken my Lord away   (echo)

A                      E
Mary just stood there, crying
                                    A    E
She could not find her Lord, John 20:13
A                          E
How about me?  -  If they took my Lord away

Would I notice any difference
                           A    D A    E A
When I read the Word and pray   (echo)

A                   E
Woman why are your crying?
                           A       E
They have taken my Lord away, she said
    A                             E
and I don't know there they have put Him
                           A    D A    E A
they have taken my Lord away   (echo)
